

September 30, 2019.... Two months have past since I made my last progress report on the House of Amen.

As the bricks dry, they must be stacked in order to make more bricks.

Much care and attention must be paid to each brick to insure it has dried before it is stacked.

It's a beautiful thing to see the women of the community also have their place in helping build The House of Amen.

Building the walls while the children play.

All clean and ready for the next step.

The Altar.

This beautiful couple wanted to get married in the community of The House of Amen by Aremu, but the building is not registered yet. To register The House of Amen costs somewhere around 150,000 Nigerian money. That sum is close to half of the donation we send each month. The community celebrated the wedding in the court house of Ilorin, Nigeria.

Someone donated Drums !!!!
