It is through the five senses that we experience the world. It is also through the five senses that we can become attached to the world and become helplessly trapped in the inertia of cause and effect, the world of karma.

Yeshua said "Be in the world and not of the world."

When we sow all that we say think and do, all of our actions, in Love without attachment to the outcome, we are in the world and not of the world.

The Five Final Letters of the Hebrew Aleph-Beit are manifestations of God's Love and were given to humanity as tools to cut the cords of attachment to the world through the five senses.

The five final letters are similar to the normal letters however the base of four of the final letters are elongated into swords that are used to cut the cords of the attachment of touch, taste, smell and sight. The four swords could be likened to the sword of St Michael, the Archangel, who cuts away the chaff and helps us walk our path.

The fifth final letter is the final letter Mem. Mem is The Mother of Living Waters who washes clean the soul so it can again hear the Word of God, The Amen, The OM, the sound of living waters, the beginning of the Creation of God.

The five final letters are manifestations of God's Love and Light and as we embrace them and let them and their meaning soak into our being, their vibration and energy lift us and help us walk the path of Love and be happy.

I value each of the Hebrew Letters as if they were Reiki symbols and incorporate them in my tracings of the meridians. When addressing the letters, I trace each with both hands simultaneously. My left hand traces the symbol to be placed on my heart, and my right hand traces the symbol that goes out into the world. The Five Final Letters of Redemption are a valuable addition because they are associated with the 5 Elements.

Buddha said "Rejoice in the freedom from attachment."
